Living Diversity – Empowered for Activism

International Training for Educators and Youth Workers

Across Europe, spaces for civil society are shrinking. Diversity is under threat. And the need for a new generation of empowered activists has never been greater. Living Diversity is a youth worker training program hosted in Bad Bevensen, Germany, bringing together educators and youth workers from Italy, North Macedonia, Poland, Romania and Germany to explore activism as a tool for diversity protection — through non-formal education, Place-Based Education (PBE), and the lived experience of our shared European values.

At the heart of this program are three transformative spaces:

The Safe Space — where every voice is heard, every identity is welcomed, and solidarity becomes more than a word. Because real change begins where people feel free to be themselves.

The Learning Space — where we deepen our understanding of democracy, civic disobedience, and collective action, equipping ourselves with the tools to challenge injustice and build alternatives.

The Activist Space — where we step beyond the individual and into the collective, turning awareness into action and values into movement. We believe that solidarity is not optional — it is a principle. That civic disobedience is a legitimate and courageous expression of democratic participation. And that activism, rooted in diversity and driven by young people, is the force that keeps freedom alive.
